A Webinar on School Post Lockdown. Why? What? How? Was organized on 3rd, 2020. This webinar was based on several insights on Innovative practices to re-build equity and inclusive programmes for effective education. Distinguished panelist, Dr Joseph Emmanuel mainly focused on the need of fast adaptability, need to explore new challenges, requirement of rationalized curriculum and use of innovative practices to rebuild equality among students.

Dr Bijaya K Sahoo thought that teacher must reach the children through whatever means we have and in whatever conditions we have. He also highlighted the huge gap between parents and teachers and advised the parents to supervise the students and extend required support to teachers during online classes. PPT Presentation by Dr Sahoo is really worthpraising.

Dr Abdullah Rasheed Ahmed, Education minister of Maldives shared the practices and experiments they are imparting education during this crisis. The government has provided internet facility free of cost to all teachers and students which was highly appreciated by all.

Lt.Gen.SH Kulkarni discussed about the fear and the anxieties of the residential school parents and he shared about the safety measures and precautions one should take in residential school.

Raghav Podar, chairman West Zone FICCI ARISE & Chairman, Podar group of schools was a moderator of this session. Preeti Hingorani, VP-Brand Cambridge University Press also joined and shared her global learnings on innovative practices.

Highly informative and insightful session. It almost covered all aspects of the new way of education system and how to tackle the situation. They also highlighted the responsibilities of all the stakeholders and requested for support for the benefit of student.
